

I think that if someone wants to start a local noncommercial station, that is good and such an applicant should be given priority over national networks of translators.